

Strengthening Nursery to Reception Transition Through Partnership

Gracelands Nursery School & Lift Montgomery Primary School

What is this showcase about?

Gracelands Nursery and Lift Montgomery Primary School worked in partnership to strengthen transition from nursery into Reception. As a key feeder setting for the school, the nursery and primary team collaborated to develop a shared approach to transition planning. This included transition visits, workshops for parents and opportunities for children and families to become familiar with the school environment. The project focused on building children's confidence and helping parents feel informed and prepared for the move into school.

Expect to see...

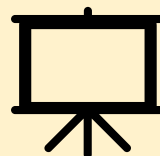

- Reflections on how partnership working between early years settings and schools can strengthen transition planning
- Examples of how workshops, visits and shared events can help children and families become familiar with the new school environment
- How involving parents in transition activities can build confidence and reassurance
- Impact evidence showing how collaborative transition planning can help children feel ready and positive about starting school
